

I urge you to begin efforts to completely replace lethal dose testing with non-animal, in vitro testing methods. The LD50 Test is unnecessarily cruel and insensitive. The National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences Workshop has recommended considering the feasibility of going one step further and replacing the LD50 test with in-vitro cell culture tests.

Thank you for your thoughtful consideration of my request.

Best regards,

Richard Johnston
New York